Save JNU from Left-Wing Atrocity: ABVP

ABVP fervently appeals to the larger student-community to extend its support to the resistance against left-radicalism. Up-to-the-minute developments have put the spotlight squarely on the unsettling role played by the JNUSU President in actively facilitating the illegal ingress of saboteurs into the JNU campus.

ABVP activists have been distinctively targeted by way of indiscriminate stone-pelting and cold-blooded caning, leaving twenty-five of them critically wounded. The agitprops have miserably failed to even remotely establish ABVP's association with the violence. On the contrary, most of the phoney defamatory materials insinuating ABVP's involvement have been successfully traced back to spurious WhatsApp groups, created and managed by the Indian National Congress. Such mischief must be unequivocally condemned by every right-thinking citizen.

To all intents and purposes, the Left has declared a war against reason, progress, and education. Even the nonpartisan and no belligerent students are being coerced by the leftist-louts to sink to their knees in supplication. Their academic progress is being indubitably threatened.

While the original perpetrators of violence have given an archetypal spin to this sordid episode of savagery, the primary victims are being wrongfully and dishonestly represented as the aggressors. It must be recapitulated that it was ABVP that had made the first request for Police Emergency Services; since being woefully outnumbered, it had more to lose in an anticipated brawl.

Nidhi Tripathi, National General Secretary, ABVP, said, "The attack on ABVP activists studying in JNU is morally reprehensible. All students are startled by the Left's vicious attempts to terrorize everybody into submission. We earnestly request the Delhi Police and JNU Administration to take all possible measures to bring the situation on the campus under control, assuage the concerns of the traumatized students, and ensure everyone's safety."
