The delegation of ABVP met the Health Minister once again demanding to extend the date of NEET PG

A meaningful discussion was held with the Ministry of Health regarding the demand of the students

The delegation of ABVP again met the Hon'ble Health Minister regarding the issue of extension of the dates of NEET PG going on in the country for the last few days. In a meeting with the Union Health Minister Dr Mansukh Mandaviya and the officials of the Health Department, a meaningful discussion on 6 important points to extend the exam date was held. After this extensive discussion, a direction to the discussion is expected to give relief to the candidates.

Last week, Hon'ble Supreme Court not interfering in the matter had left the decision to extend the exam date to the central government. The problem of the students was also placed before the Union Health Minister through a memorandum by the delegation of ABVP which also demanded permission to fill the form by reopening the link for a day for the students whose allotted seats were cancelled.

Leading the delegation National Convener of MeDeVision Dr Virendra Solanki said, "We are constantly striving to fulfil the demands of the students. We are in touch with thousands of students across the country whose views we have presented to the Health Ministry. It is expected that as soon as possible a student-friendly solution will be found.

National General Secretary of ABVP, Nidhi Tripathi, said, "Our delegation mainly put forward six important points in front of the Hon'ble Union minister. The officials acknowledged it to be a major issue that needs to be focused on. So, we are positive that these points will pave the way for the decision and the students will get relief."
